PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Kathy Leary

Gazing out my window at the snow slides built up on either side of my house it is difficult to conjure up visions of Spring. But, contrary to some local skeptics, it will arrive eventually and along with it a season of many pleasures and some challenges.

In the latter category there is some concern that there may be flooding on the Alpine Plateau Road. According to our long-timers the snow conditions this year are comparable to those in 1984 when the bottom of the road was badly washed out by the Spring run-off. The Board and members of the Road Committee are actively working with Gunnison County, the Forest Service and our own heavy equipment operators to take preventative measures against this occurrence. We are also attempting to negotiate an alternative egress for the community should a problem arise.

We are adding a new blade to our heavy equipment inventory which should pretty much double our snow removal capability. This is a 12ft. severe duty snow blade with hydraulic cab operated cylinders for angling a blade. The blade will save wear and tear on the grader extending its life considerably and forestalling a major Association expenditure.

The planning for the parking lot bathroom and trailer dump facility is proceeding well. The appropriate approvals are in place and plans are in the process of being solicited. Hopes are high that we will have the luxury of a proper facility by next snowmobile season. This should make for some much more comfortable rides to and from town and the parking lot.

Now, to the pleasures of Spring (as I watch the snow gently wafting outside my window). It is widely being speculated that, with all the moisture we've had this year, we should have a bumper crop of wildflowers. A pleasant thought on a dreary day. Come on Spring!

WILDLIFE...DID YOU KNOW

The Red Fox has a bushy white tipped tail that is used for balance when running and in cold weather wraps its tail over its face. It usually stalks its prey and then pounces on it. In the winter they hunt small rodents, rabbits and birds. It will also eat dried berries.

This particular fox is most likely being fed by humans as one resident could not scare the animal away in order to let his dog outside. It is thought that this fox will be killed this summer because it has no fear of humans or dogs. Please do not feed wildlife.

Fire Department News

FIRE CHIEF'S LETTER

Kevin Stilley

As the snow is melting up here on the mountain it is a good time to look at this past winter and look forward to what is ahead of us this coming summer.

The winter was a busy one for the fire department. Our medical group continued to meet for monthly training and education. Our fire fighters, also known as A -Team, also had a full schedule of training as a group and as 3 person teams training on the fire truck.

Fire House Command, now known as Base, has been exceptionally busy with protocols, communications, and organization. Finally, the Auxiliary have kept us all smiling by providing meals when we have full day training sessions. If you have never eaten their meals then you are missing out. It's worth joining the fire department just to taste some of their food. My thanks go out to all of these people for their dedication and time spent keeping the Arrowhead area a safe place to be.

March 1 brought the 1st Annual Firefighter Games and Chili Cook-Off. The event was a huge success. Congratulations to the team of Bob Rosenbaum, Mike Bartlett and Gary Kelley for coming in with the best time of dressing into their firefighting gear, taking the fire truck to the hydrant, and spraying the target with water. Congratulations also go out to Becky Stilley for winning the chili cook-off, followed by Lucia LeBon in second and Kathy Koeltzow in third place.

A couple of Search and Rescue exercises took place up country as well. Each time we have these exercises we learn more of what works well in these conditions. Quite honestly I do have to say, our search and rescue exercises are most of our favorite drills.

Many of you are summer residents and are planning on coming up soon. Now might be a good time to be thinking of your plans while you are up here. One idea worth considering is to join the fire department. While we have a great time serving the community, we also take our positions seriously. In other words, don't expect to be fighting a fire with just one or two training sessions under your belt. However, as you know, fire fighters aren't the only people donating their time to the fire department. Please feel free to call me at (970)862-8277 and I am sure we can find a position that would fit you.

Have a great spring.

SECURITY NOTES

Kathy Leary

As the change of seasons approaches we will have an increasing number of folks flocking to the mountain. That being the case, Security is issuing a few reminders so that we can all co-exist safely and amicably.

Before use, all fire pits must be inspected annually. No exceptions. Please, contact security to schedule an inspection (862-8262).

As in the winter with snowmobiles, it is illegal and downright un-neighborly to drive vehicles of any kind on another's property. This not only violates Arrowhead regulations it violates the laws of Gunnison County.

The parking lot must be clear of all vehicles, including and most especially snowmobiles, no later than May 31st. This is because of an agreement we have with Gunnison County. Violators are subject to a fine of $100.00.

Finally, a number of people have been calling to see when the filing roads will re-open. Given current conditions, my personal inclination would be to say August but then I am prone to exaggeration. All kidding aside, with our near record snowfall this year, it is impossible to predict when the roads will re-open.

Updates on conditions will be posted on the Arrowhead web site.

HELLO SHUTTERBUGS!!

The Shutterbugs is going to produce and publish a 2009 calendar of Arrowhead to offer for sale at the 4th of July Picnic. Also, we would like to have in the same booth, photos and art for sale from the Arrowhead community. Photos and Visual Arts are for sale for personal gain unless you would like to donate the sale to the Shutterbugs.

This is a fundraiser strictly for the Shutterbugs to fund guest speakers, hire models, fund field trips to local attractions, etc.

We are short on time for this calendar project, so we need everyone to submit pictures for selection soon. The photos must be submitted before May 2, 2008 to either Richard Ostrom, or Cheri Ratliff by email, large enough to print to 8x10.

The photos this year will be exclusively landscapes of Arrowhead or environs. Please submit as many pictures as you want.

The selection will take place at the meeting May 2, 2008, so don't put it off. If you are on the mountain by July 4th, bring along you're pictures and artwork to sell.

Richard---r-po@earthlink.net or Cheri---cheriratliff@fone.net

Thanks,
Rich Ostrom

Road and Heavy Equipment Report Also The Latest on the Parking Lot Restroom

Ralph Ambruster

Greetings, from Tucson, Arizona. Shirley and I have relocated here for a couple of months so I can have a little knee surgery. I would like to report that the roads here are in good shape and have been open all winter. Shirley is very depressed for lack of snow and hates running around in shorts. That being said she is dealing with it and keeping a stiff upper lip. On a more serious note if you need to reach me call 970-862-8459. That forwards to my cell.

Well now to the news from Arrowhead. Will and the "Road Gang" continue to do a stellar job of maintaining the Alpine Road and the filing snowmobile trails. The big melt is on the way and it could be challenging this year due to the heavy snow accumulation. We are keeping an eye on the Alpine and trying to carry out preventative measures to prevent it from flooding out. Rich Leary is coordinating with Will, the county and the National Forest Service. Not sure when Maestro Will will try to open the filing roads. He will make this call based on existing conditions. Based on his years of experience Will has my full support in making this call.

We have ordered a new blade for the front-end loader. This will ease usage on the grader and give us a backup if necessary. It will also make the loader more suitable than the grader for some of the snow moving operations. It seems that there was a big demand for these blades this year. We are not sure if ours will be here in time to help with this year's snow but we are trying to expedite it. Oscar Ratliff is doing a great job keeping tabs on this entire effort.

We had planned to get a new grader this fiscal year. We are pulling back and re-studying this based on several factors. The first is cost. We have been unable to locate a used grader in our price range that has lower hours or is in better shape than ours. We are also looking at alternative snow removal systems. More on all of this as the year progresses.

Our snow removal expenses are over budget for this year. This is due to higher fuel cost, more use of fuel and more use of labor. In explanation of the latter, we used to use volunteers to help Will out. They were not covered by any insurance when doing so nor compensated for their time. We have a lot more of these fine folks who are helping us out this year. It is unfair to them and AIA not to have them covered by insurance and compensated for this difficult work. Therefore we have put all of the heavy equipment volunteers on the payroll to remedy this situation. As we get into the rest of the year we will have to look at several AIA planned expenditures with an eye to cutting cost and finishing in the black.

The community is concerned that the "trail to the top" of the Alpine was not groomed this year. I am not sure this is an AIA issue yet. Lucia Lebon and Mary Cockes are working this problem as volunteers and I would suggest that you forward your ideas and concerns to them.

Thanks in advance to Jim Burrichter who has agreed to serve on the road committee and assist on some special projects.

And lastly, the news you all have been waiting for, an update on the parking lot latrine. Thanks to efforts by Richard Ostrom our land use permit modification has been approved by the county and our new septic permit is approved pending local site testing. At this writing we are putting together final specs for the facility which will go out to bid.

Well that is about it from machines to snow to bathrooms! I thank all of you for your support and please be in touch with me regarding your ideas and concerns.

We have had a particularly severe winter at Arrowhead this year resulting in a lot of damage to homes. In the process of notifying owners of damages it is evident that we lack phone numbers for many owners when you are off the mountain. Arrowhead Summer Bible Study resumes the first Monday in June.

Arrowhead Summer Bible Study, an interdenominational program initiated years ago in the home of former residents Mike and Carolyn Spence and led by Mike, begins again this summer with volunteer host couples and volunteer study leaders, with meetings held each Monday evening at 7 pm. This summer we embark on a two-year study called Experiencing God, a sixteen-lesson work-book style program, by Blackaby and King.

Out of consideration for our RVers who stream in and out of Arrowhead during the months of June and September, Experiencing God will be studied during July and August of 2008 and 2009. Shorter studies will occur during June and September. You may sign up to order the Experiencing God workbook (about $20 for the two years) by contacting Ann Lillich, PO Box 65, Cimarron CO 81220, 970-862-8255. A group order will be placed in June, and you pay only when you receive your copy. You may also purchase a copy from any Christian book store or from Amazon.

For questions about Summer Bible Study, please feel free to call: Dede and Dick Mace, 862-8346, Doris and George Grosvenor, 862-8374, Judy Elrichs, 862-8280 (all after June 1, or Ann and Ned Lillich, 862-8255 (after May 1).

The Inn Update. As most of you know the Inn suffered some water damage this winter. They are currently working on repairs. Heath Houseman says, "the new tile has been laid and the new walls up and painted, but there's still a way to go yet before a finished product. The new walk-in cooler won't arrive for two to three weeks. Once it's installed, we have to install a new draught beer system. Then the kitchen and pub will be finished. The new carpet comes next week and should be down by the following week. Then there's the big clean-up. So. The prediction is that the Inn will be completely finished toward the end of April. But since we're in Mud Season now, officially, and this is when the Inn always closes, well, it's not going to make much difference anyway. We've got Inn guest reservations starting mid-May, but our official reopening will be Memorial Day Weekend, Saturday the 24th with our annual Irish Spring Fling Celtic Luau. We've got the international touring Celtic band Feast coming, Irish step dancers and bagpipers, and at that point things will be back to normal (I think), our regular schedule will be back on line, so make your reservations today!"

Division of Wildlife – News Release

Colorado Bears Emerge From Hibernation

There are between 8,000 and 12,000 bears in Colorado and most of them will awaken from their winter hibernation within the next few weeks. As the temperatures warm and snow pack melts, nature provides and new generation of tender young plants for bears to eat. Adult male bears usually emerge from their dens first. Females with cubs tend to come out later. For the first few weeks following hibernation, bears drink lots of water, helping their digestive system adjust. Once they are ready to eat again, they become relentless in their search for food. New grass, dandelions, and young plants are typical natural foods -- but bears are opportunists and will eat anything they find.

The Colorado Division of Wildlife (DOW) reminds people that an ounce of prevention is worth 200 pounds of cure. “Many people do not realize that a few simple precautions can minimize the chance of unwanted encounters with bears. Right now, is the best time to walk your property and remove any bear attractants from sight and smell,” said Bob Davies, a senior biologist with the DOW. He recommends “bear-proofing” your property by removing items a bear might consider potential food sources such as bird feeders, pet food left outside or unsecured trash cans.

These things may seem insignificant, but they can create behavior patterns in bears which often cannot be reversed. If there was bear activity in your neighborhood last year, you’ll need to be extra careful this year, as bears will return to the same locations where they have been successful finding food in the past. If the home or business owner does not take action to remove the bear attractants (anything that smells like potential food), it is only a matter of time before the bear will return.

If you regularly see a bear on your property, assess the situation to find out what is attracting the bear and take steps to remove the attractant.

The American Black Bear is the only species of bears that live in Colorado. Black Bears are generally shy and usually avoid humans, but their need for food and sense of smell often draws them to human residences.

Remember, “A fed bear is a dead bear.” By making food available to a bear, people train it to associate humans with food. Once a bear learns this association, it can become dangerous and often must be killed.

Colorado has a “two strike” rule for dealing with problem bears. The first time a bear gets into trouble, it receives an ear tag marking it as a problem bear. Another serious encounter, or “second strike,” means the bear will be killed.

Here are some tips to prevent bears from becoming habituated to human food:

- Take down, clean and put away bird feeders. Bear damage to bird feeders is a common complaint. Once a bear has found a feeder in your yard, it will likely look around for other easy foods within reach.
- Keep garbage in airtight containers inside your garage or storage area. Clean trash cans with ammonia or bleach occasionally to reduce odors that attract bears.
- Consider a bear-proof dumpster – if not available, ask your trash-removal company for options.
- Place garbage for pickup outside just before collection and not the night before.
- Do not place meat or sweet-smelling food scraps such as melon rinds in a compost pile.
- Do not leave pet food or dishes outdoors at night.
- Clean up and store outdoor grills after use. Sticky barbecue sauce and grease can attract bears to your yard.
- Never intentionally feed bears to attract them to your yard for viewing. It's illegal to feed bears in Colorado – in addition to being bad for the bear; you will be ticketed and fined.

Here are a few tips for campers in bear country:

- Keep a clean site and clean up thoroughly after every meal;
- After grilling meat allow the fire to continue until the scraps and grease are burned completely off the grill.
- When you are not eating or preparing a meal, store food inside locked vehicles;
- Do not eat in your tent or keep food in your tent;
- Store scraps and garbage in a secure container or vehicle;
- In the back country, place food well away from the camp site and hang food in trees.
- If you see a bear in a campground, report to the local DOW office as soon as possible.
- If you come in close contact with a bear, talk to it firmly and make yourself look as large as possible. Back away slowly, don't run.
- Speak to children and others who might be unfamiliar with bears.

Here are a few tips for "bear proofing" your property:

- Store garbage inside and put it out only on the morning of pick-up;
- Take in bird feeders at night, and during the day when bears are known to be in the area;
- Feed your pets and store pet dishes inside;
- Run your barbecue grill until grease and food is burned off;
- Pick up fruit that has fallen on the ground;
- If your neighborhood uses a dumpster, talk to the trash company or your homeowner's association about obtaining a bear-proof container;
- Keep garage doors closed;
- Talk to neighbors who might not know about bear behavior.
- If you live in bear habitat and want to compost, use an indoor worm bin.

Habitat. Black bears have long been viewed as forest dwelling animals. However, an unbroken expanse of forest doesn't provide enough food for black bears. They need berry patches and stream bottoms to satisfy their appetites for plants and insects.

In Colorado, the largest black bear populations are found in areas dominated by Gambel's oak and aspen near open areas of chokecherry and serviceberry bushes.

Every bear has a home range where it finds all it needs. It travels to different areas of its home range as snow recedes, plants sprout and berries ripen.

In general, black bears may range from 10 to 250 square miles. Adult males occupy the largest areas, while females usually establish their home range close to their mothers'.

Homeownership Can Put Wealth At Your Doorstep

Your home is your foundation today, and your opportunity to build a financially healthy tomorrow.

You don't have to be a seasoned real estate investor to purchase an investment property or second home. As a homeowner, all you need to know is that it's possible.

Let us show you how the right financing can help you turn the equity in your home into an investment in a rental property, a second home, and your future.

Make the most of your opportunity. Call today.
